Makes waste sorting easier

The practical waste sorting bins in the RATIONELL series help you to organise and recycle your household waste simply and easily. The bins are available in several different sizes and are specially designed to be used with FAKTUM kitchen cabinets. To make your waste sorting even easier, the bins are designed for different types of household waste – from glass bottles and newspapers to food scraps and batteries – and easy to clean. That's good for you and for the environment.

HOW TO BUILD

Choose a base cabinet from the FAKTUM kitchen system and combine it with RATIONELL waste sorting bins. You decide which cabinet and how many different bins you want to use. Start for example with 14-litre bins for food scraps and combustible materials and complement them with lids.

Add a 32-litre bin, suitable for newspapers and cardboard, and conclude with 3-litre bins for sorting batteries and light bulbs. Or choose your own combination.

COMBINATIONS

A good foundation. Combine a 60 cm sink cabinet with a 40 cm base cabinet from the FAKTUM kitchen system. Then place the various waste sorting bins in the RATIONELL series into the cabinets. What you've created is a practical foundation to make organising and recycling your household waste simple and easy. There's room in the combination to sort newspapers, cardboard, batteries, light bulbs, food scraps, combustible materials and metal.

COMBINATIONS

Extra space. Do you have a lot of household waste to sort? Then, combine an 80 cm sink cabinet with a 40 cm base cabinet from the FAKTUM kitchen system – and place the various waste sorting bins from the RATIONELL series into the cabinets. This way, you can be sure you will have room for all types of waste. There's room in the combination to sort newspapers, cardboard, batteries, light bulbs, food scraps, combustible materials and metal.
