Care instructions

Laminated flooring should never be sanded, waxed or polished. The hardwearing surface is easy to clean and maintain. Normal cleaning, such as sweeping, vacuuming and dry mopping only if the floor is slightly dirty. Stains are removed with a moist cloth. If needed, the floor should be damp mopped with a mild detergent and dried with a cloth.

Soap, wax or floor polish should never be used on laminated flooring, because they leave a film that attracts dirt and dust.

If the floor becomes damaged, you can replace one plank or several. Because laminated flooring doesn't bleach from sunlight, you can replace an old plank with a new one without worrying about any shifts in colour.

Tip

Take good care of your floor by using felt floor protectors under your furniture and floor protectors under things with rolling castors. It's also a good idea to put a doormat in front of the entrance as an effective way to stop gravel and pebbles from coming in. Because laminated flooring is wood-based, it's important to always wipe up any water from the floor.

NOTE: Never pour water directly on the floor.
