The STOCKHOLM 2025 collection

A collection today. Collectables tomorrow.

Quality you can both see and feel. For 40 years, that's what our STOCKHOLM collections have always been about. And the 2025 collection is no exception: beautiful craftsmanship, carefully chosen materials, and attention to detail. But with a price tag that's within reach.

With 96 thoughtfully designed pieces – from statement sofas to elegant tableware – STOCKHOLM 2025 is a celebration of great quality and Scandinavian design that fits beautifully into your home and budget.

Meet the Creative Leader | Karin Gustavsson

Meet Karin

“For me, Scandinavian design is all about timeless simplicity such as harmonising colours, natural materials and organic forms. I also like to work with contrasts; where something soft, like wool, meets something glossy, like glass, together creating a unique and interesting expression.

When leading the creative direction of STOCKHOLM 2025, I created a common basis for the project with our designers. Together, we then selected the materials, colours and shapes. Production was also key to getting the right quality level, and thanks to longstanding relationships with our producers, we’ve been able to give life to a collection that oozes of design and craftsmanship at a price point that I’m very proud of.

I hope the pieces in this collection become “forever furniture”, ageing beautifully as part of a personal and living home.”

"And then there was the chandelier. Karin had this vision for it, and I could feel it, but it was a bit abstract for me at first. I wanted to go with wood, maybe some fabric, but eventually, we found our way to glass. Now it has a simplicity that feels just right for STOCKHOLM and for me as a designer."

Nike Karlsson, Designer

A collection born in 1985. And only getting better with age.

40 years ago, we launched the first STOCKHOLM collection, described then (and now!) as "the best of IKEA." Four decades later, this legacy remains stronger than ever.

With the STOCKHOLM collections, we are constantly pushing ourselves to the edge. While quality is always a priority at IKEA, STOCKHOLM combines materials, craftsmanship, and design with the ability to produce at scale. As a result, we can offer these high-quality pieces at reasonable prices.

It's a testament to our vision and the journey we're on as a home furnishing brand: to make everyday life better through better products at better prices.

Meet the Designers | Nike Karlsson

Meet Nike

“You’d think a collection called STOCKHOLM would just have a big city feeling. But we went outside the city, to the nature and islands around it. That shift was inspiring. One highlight was working with our Swedish pine supplier to source the highest-quality pine. People often think of pine as a budget material, but when you go for the best, its beauty is undeniable. The bench and sofa really show that. The sofa is our first foam-free design. It’s got a 100% cotton weave and is filled with coconut fibres and pocket springs. It makes this satisfying sound when you sit – that’s quality you can feel and hear.”

“We wanted this collection to feel like a home that’s been collected over time, even if you buy all the pieces at once. It’s all about creating that organic, lived-in feel. Despite being created by three designers, our shared vision allows the pieces to complement each other beautifully.”

“Rooted in the rich heritage of Scandinavian design,
STOCKHOLM 2025 remains independent and true to IKEA.”

A close-up photograph of a wooden chair joint, showing the intersection of a curved backrest and a vertical support post. The wood is light-colored with a visible grain. A small, round, textured wooden piece is visible at the joint. A small metal fastener is visible on the lower part of the backrest.

"It's all about the details, from the design to the material choices. Like with the dining chairs, where we used oak because it ages with grace, leather seating for comfort, and a beautifully curved back so guests can linger for hours."

Solitaires that love to mingle

The STOCKHOLM 2025 collection coordinates beautifully together, yet each item is unique enough to stand proudly on its own. Go all-in with the complete look or mix and match your favourite furniture and accessories to create that one-of-a-kind expression. Regardless of whether the pieces from STOCKHOLM 2025 are used individually or together, it's a collection today that will become collectables tomorrow.

PH202767.jpg

PH202752.jpg

“Each piece is unique, letting people create their own style. Go for the full look or mix items with what you love at home – each piece stands strong solo yet remains part of a bigger story.”

Ola Wihlborg, Designer

Solid wood. Mouth- blown glass. Handwoven rugs.

Over the past three years, we have been on a journey to create a no-compromise kind of collection, where every piece tells a story of what quality is all about.

For example, the rugs have been handwoven by skilled artisans, where traditional techniques have been passed down from generation to generation. The chairs are made of solid oak, which only gets more beautiful with time. All vases are mouthblown. And the chandeliers come with white gloves to wear during assembly. (If that's not fancy, we don't know what is!)

Because with the STOCKHOLM 2025 collection, the details make all the difference.

“The STOCKHOLM 2025 collection was a great design brief – with the opportunity to explore quality through materials, we mixed solid wood, high-quality veneer, ceramic, textiles, glass and natural fibre. It was balancing act, but the right mix gave each piece a unique story. Quality is also about how it feels, how it looks, how it lasts and how it functions.

The STOCKHOLM brief also focused on capturing Stockholm’s unique blend of nature. And being from Stockholm myself, that connection was already in my bones – the city where you can get on a boat and find yourself in the forest in 20 minutes. It was great inspiration for the designs.”

The shelf's detail no. 1 is the fitting with which the shelves are mounted. The shelf is assembled with a hidden fitting that stabilizes the shelf and enables airy construction without a back panel or braces.

We're from Sweden. And with STOCKHOLM, it shows.

In a country where more than half is covered by forest, the great outdoors plays a significant role in the life of a Swede. Up here in the north, autumns are rainy, winters are snow-filled, springtimes are unreliable, and during summer, the sun never sets. With the STOCKHOLM 2025 collection, we've captured the hues and moods across all four seasons, as well as the materials, organic shapes, and forest-inspired patterns that can be found here.

Simply put, the collection offers a Scandinavian design that echoes Sweden's beautiful landscape and design heritage, with all the bells and whistles it can muster.

“Nature plays a significant role in our designs. Living in Scandinavia, we experience seasonal changes that inspire our colour palettes and forms. For instance, I took inspiration from my walks in the countryside, capturing colours that reflect springtime greenery or winter’s muted tones. Nature is the best designer – every colour matches beautifully in the natural world, guiding this collection.”

Paulin Machado, Designer

PH202369.jpg

Meet Paulin

“Each item is designed to be timeless and tactile – something you can live with and appreciate over a long period. My favourite products are the birch rugs. There’s something special about working with handwoven materials and the skill passed down through generations. Becoming a master weaver takes years, and each rug takes two artisans days to complete. They sit side by side, each working on one side of the rug, weaving in sync. People might think it’s just weaving, but there’s so much detail involved – the choice of yarn colours, the texture, how tight to pull each thread. Every decision affects the final product.”
